PEDESTRIANS' RULES

Some one in Dr. Wiley's office in the Oregonian Building, evidently a stenographer, forwarded to Assistant Secretary of State Sam A. Koser, the following clever satire on rules of the road:

1. Pedestrians crossing streets at night shall wear a white light in front and a red light in the rear.

2. Before turning to the right or left they shall give three short blasts on a horn at least three inches in diameter.

3. When an inexperienced automobile driver is made nervous by a pedestrian, he shall indicate the same, and the pedestrian shall hide behind a tree until the automobile has passed.

4. Pedestrians shall not carry in their pockets any sharp instruments which may cut automobile tires.

5. In dodging automobiles, pedestrians shall not run more than seven miles an hour.

6. Pedestrians must register at the beginning of each year and pay a license fee of $5.00 for the privilege of living. There shall be no rebate if they do not live the entire year.

7. Each pedestrian before receiving his license to walk upon the streets must demonstrate before an examining board his skill in dodging, leaping, crawling and extricating himself from machinery.

8. Pedestrians will be held responsible for all damages done to automobiles or their occupants by collision.—Oregon Voter.

Joke on the Highwayman.

"Hands up!" cried the business-like highwayman. The victim laughed as he complied. "The joke is on you," he asserted, chuckling. "I've just paid a large bill sent by a lawyer for adding me to all my income-tax schedule. A month ago my landlord raised my rent. My son has just come home from France and can't get a job. Yesterday my salary was decreased. Today the bank in which I kept the remnant of my money went smash. I've been looking all night for one of you chaps. I want to learn this hold-up business." Weeping bitterly, the highwayman thrust the revolver into his would-be victim's hands and disappeared in the darkness.

The Successful Farmer Raises Bigger Crops and cuts down costs by investment in labor-saving machinery.

Good prices for the farmers' crops encourage new investment, more production and greater prosperity.

But the success of agriculture depends on the growth of railroads—the modern beasts of burden that haul the crops to the world's markets.

The railroads—like the farms—increase their output and cut down unit costs by the constant investment of new capital.

With fair prices for the work they do, the railroads are able to attract new capital for expanding their facilities.

Rates high enough to yield a fair return will insure railroad growth, and prevent costly traffic congestion, which invariably results in poorer service at higher cost.

National wealth can increase only as our railroads grow.

Poor railroad service is dear at any price. No growing country can long pay the price of inadequate transportation facilities.
